YOUTH AGAINST HATE

June 22-23: 100s of anti-racists will be converging in downtown Toronto from the city, the suburbs and beyond for ARA Toronto's regional anti-fascist conference.

The weekend will give us all a chance to meet each other, share stories, and share some good times. The need for a gathering like this has become even more apparent as we have begun to hear back from interested people in cities and towns throughout Ontario, people who are sick of racist attacks, queer-bashing, and the general reactionary bullshit that is everywhere in the society.

The weekend will help people get organized and empowered to form new anti-racist / anti-fascist groups or to get involved in the work already happening, wherever we are. We're all inspired by progress in the U.S., where over 10 new ARA groups have gotten together since the ARA Network gathering in Columbus, Ohio last October.

This conference will also demonstrate that people who are down with militancy and direct action can also do kick-ass long-term, community-based organizing. Workshops range from hands-on practice with street art and propaganda, to focused discussions on resisting racist anti-Native organizing or the racist rock industry, to gatherings of musicians and friends interested in reinventing the Rock Against Racism movement.

The Canadian Anti-Racism Research and Education Society, based in Vancouver, is co-sponsoring the conference and will be bringing the latest news from the West Coast.

And on the entertainment tip — a ska & reggae show featuring the Parka Kings of Detroit (in their first show north of the border!), local faves Arsenals, reggae stars Wailin' Souljahs and the dancehall rhythms of Women Ah Run Tings Band. Give everyone a couple days to sleep it off after the conference — then we'll be getting busy with putting together an anti-racist movement that'll blow the boneheads away.

Nazi morons get nailed

Thanks to the work of anti-fascists and the brainless boasting of boneheads, the kkkops can no longer ignore hate-crime committed by a nazi gang. Pigs taking time out from routine donut munching, finally charged four skins who stole the life of a man 5 years ago.

On Winnipeg's Gay Pride day, June sacked for his racist delusions of grandeur as a founder of the white youth gang Northern Hammer Skins chapter in Winnipeg. Co-founder of the hammered skins, Robbie Welsh is now co-defendant in the gay-bashing murder case. Lisik and Welsh are also suspected of a '94 drunken homo-hate rampage that targeted at least three men.

Matt McKay, an ex-Airborne Corporal and Aryan Nation boot-boy, was arrested at his home in Calgary. In 1992 the Winnipeg Sun outed Matt as a hitler-fetishist. It published a photo (shot inside the barracks of the Canadian Forces Base, Winnipeg), of McKay doing sieg heil vogue in skinhead drag, wearing an Adolph Hitler T-shirt with a swastika flag hanging above his empty head.

After McKay murdered Gordon Kuhty, he was transferred to C.F.B. Petawawa, and promoted to Monster Corporal in the Airborne Regiment. Military sources admit that white supremacists were tolerated in every part of the army and openly encouraged within the cracker-jack paratroop units. The confederate flag, a recognized racist symbol was awarded to the rogue regiment in the 1980's.

Following "Operation Destroy Hope" in Somalia, the Airborne was disbanded in utter disgrace. McKay admits officers ordered the baiting of Somali civilians by leaving food a few meters within the army compound. When starving civilians tried to eat, one was beaten and tortured to death, at least three others shot. A drunk tattooed 'door-Matt' McKay who complained on video that he "ain't killed enough niggers yet", describes Clayton Matchee as his best friend.

Matchee is the prime suspect in the torture death of Shidane Arone. Military courts tried 13 members of the regiment for atrocities committed in Somalia.

Testifying at the Edmonton trial of fellow Final Solution Skinhead Daniel Simms, Daryl-the-rat-Rivest called McKay a "Big scary bear." McKay frequently exploited Department of National Defence aircraft to travel the country organizing hate. When visiting Edmonton McKay played the role of enforcer leading drunken hunting parties in search of Natives, Queers and anti-racist activists to stomp.

Busted in Winnipeg's glue-head infested Royal Albert welfare Hotel, nazi gutter punk and long time loser Gary Kuffner was the last of the four skins pinched for murder.

Ironically, (but not surprisingly) these skin-tight-levis-wearing fear mongers are close mates and ex-lovers of Manitoba KKK gran'dragoon, Billy Harcus. Bumbuddies as teenagers, now their Aryan Nation Christian Identity guilt drives them to hate themselves. Frustrated and heavily in denial they violently lash out when they see proud gay men happy and comfortable with their sexuality. Pathetically pickling their brains huffing glue they cannot see it is their morbid values that are wrong, not their burning desires to suck cock.

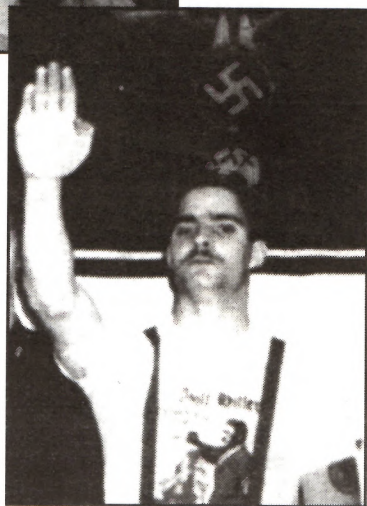

Matt McKay-1996

30th 1991, when Gordon Kuhty was taking an early morning riverside walk he was jumped by psychotic oi boys. Beating him with boots and fists they dragged him into the river where he was stoned to death. Neighbors hearing Gordon's cries for help saw four white male gang members flee the scene.

This past February James Lisik, Robbie Welsh, Matt McKay and Gary Kuffner were arrested for the cowardly gay-bashing murder. Last year, two of the accused were canned by the army for their disgraceful activities in violent hate groups.

Kkkops in Penticton, British Columbia busted known fag-beater James Lisik. Once a reservist in Winnipeg's Cameron Highlanders Regiment, the limp-dick Lisik got

Fromm boo(t)ed from coast to coast

Roseanne Skokes' SUNSHINE BOY

Paul "the fart" Fromm, leading loser of old school nazis. Likes to teach English as the only language to adult students in Peel region. Paul likes the March break so he can have "retreats" with his nazi buddies who are close to biting the dust. If he takes a sick leave in April, most likely he is partying to celebrate Hitler's B'day at the Swansea Hall.

It seems like 'Squeaky' has developed a bad habit of showing up where he's not wanted. The Canadian Association for Free Expression (a.k.a. Inbred Gene-Pool Survivors Anonymous) had organized for their fuhrer, Paul "Buttmunch" Fromm, to give a speech in Edmonton on March. The lecture was to be full of endless, incoherent bullshit about why losers like Jim Keegstra should be allowed to advocate hatred and racism; how the immigrants are destroying 'white' Klanaduh; and so on.

By 7:30 p.m. there were about 150 protesters gathered – representing lots of communities and student organizations – waiting to tell Fromm where to go and how to get there. After searching the hotel where Squeaky was booked to speak, they were satisfied that the kkkops were telling the truth and that Fromm had been given the boot.

Next stop on the Fromm tour of misfortune was Surrey, British Columbia (a suburb of Vancouver). He had planned for big splashy, trashy conference featuring lots of west-coast defenders of hate propaganda, including Eileen Pressler, Zundel's lawyer Doug Christie, Jud Cyllorn, and columnist Doug Collins, for March 23 at the Surrey Inn. Surprise! Word got out to anti-racists in enough time for west-coast folks to convince the hotel to cancel.

So much for Paul's freedom-to-hate tour. Cheers for the Edmonton Anti-Fascist League!! And a shout-out to anti-racist allies in the Vancouver area.

But no thanks to right-wing radio stations who gave Squeaky the attention he so desperately craves. Somehow, Fromm managed to get an hour of free radio time in on 630 CHED Edmonton, boring thousands of listeners to tears as he droned on about how the anti-fascists are "terrorists", "lawbreakers" and "loonies". He took the opportunity to boost his already over-inflated ego by bragging about how he's been carrying around a copy of "Will America Drown?", a book banned in Klanaduh as hate literature (wow, Paul, we're all really impressed). Next in Surrey, Fromm got a platform, taking the chance to rail on about this and that and make veiled threats against anti-racists.

But while he may be making progress on the airwaves, Fromm's not getting anywhere on the ground. From Toronto to Vancouver, Fromm went too far and got really fucked.

Zundel finds love in Niagara

Ernie's Canadian troubles may be coming to an end soon. Years of community pressure to get him OUT may be finally paying off as the legal system sheds its malaise and gets into gear. But will his apparent efforts to scam U.S. immigration authorities be successful?

Recently, his application for Canadian citizenship was rejected, on the grounds that he poses a security threat to Canada. This was on the recommendation of the Canadian Security and Intelligence Service (CSIS). A deportation hearing is the next logical step in this process. Ernie is appealing the CSIS decision, and claims that he will "fight to the finish for his right to Canadian citizenship".

But it looks like the guru of the far-right is making other plans behind the scenes. First he sold out his would-be brownshirt disciples by dissing nazi skinheads on the Internet and severing all links to their pages. Then he slipped into Niagara Falls, U.S.A., for a quickie marriage with an unnamed woman, according to Britain's Searchlight magazine. Anti-fascists around the world are cringing at the thought of their wedding night in the honeymoon capital of North America.

So what's the deal, oh Nordic fuhrer? Those lonely, cold Canadian winters are getting too much for you? Or are you just terrified to return to the German fatherland, where an even colder jail cell is waiting for you?

In Germany, Zundel has already been sentenced to years in the clink for his Holocaust-denial, neo-Nazi propaganda. It's been an international embarrassment for Canada that the authorities couldn't nail him on anything when even his own Teutonic brothers had convicted him for his hate-mongering.

Most recently, charges laid against him by Holocaust Survivor Sabina Citron, alleging mischief and criminal libel, were dropped by the Crown. On short notice, the unstoppable Ms. Citron held a protest outside the Attorney-General's office, getting a warm welcome from striking OPSEU workers. She's following up with civil libel suit against him.

One person not invited to the Grand Poobah's wedding was lawyer Gary Botting, who testified on Zundel's behalf during his Holocaust-denial trial in 1985. Botting was presented as an "expert witness" on the freedom of speech issue, but on April 19 publicly withdrew his support for Zundel, Zundel's lawyer Doug Christie, and Christie's defense committee for racists, the Canadian Free Speech League (a group which has done legal support work for James Keegstra, Malcolm Ross, Zundel, and other Canadian fascists).

In an open letter to Christie, Botting described the CFSL as "authoritarian and not in the least open to free speech...in the Canadian Free Speech League, the only opinions truly allowed are those which conform to your own. And those opinions, as you well know, are antisemitic and almost blatantly pro-Nazi".

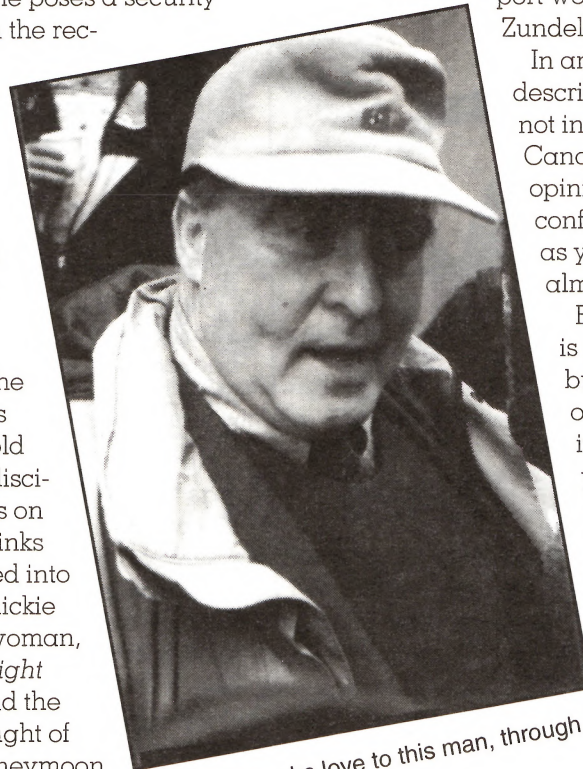

Being a nazi isn't as fun as it used to be, is it Ernie? The recently refurbished bunker isn't quite so comfortable. Not only are your friends deserting you, but it's getting tougher to meet up with your racial comrades, constantly being deported and locked up. On March 9, Zundel-freund Oliver Bode was permanently deported from Canada. And Ernie's main U.S. contact, Gary Lauck, is being held in Germany to face charges there, after being busted in the Netherlands on an international warrant.

It has taken the Canadian government years to make a real effort to do something about Zundel, while war criminals responsible for the deaths of thousands of people during the Second World War are enjoying their retirement in Canada. At the same time, the north american anti-immigrant lobby steps up its campaign against poor people and political refugees who were forced to leave their homes because of brutal oppression.

Let's see which of these anti-immigrant hypocrites makes a stink if Zundel skips town and crosses the border to join his new-found heartthrob – and to avoid deportation to his German homeland.

Who could make love to this man, through the bulletproof jacket?

Is the Carlton St. gang getting ready to shoot those unforgettable honeymoon videos? Oh yeah Ernie, you can leave your hat on.

Auschwitz Then & Now

On April 6th about 100 members of the Polish fascist party PWN-PSN (Polish National Community - Polish National Party) marched through the former nazi death camp at Auschwitz. Marchers carried banners with the slogans "Down with EU", "Down with NATO" and "Down with Jews in Government".

This disgusting display of nazi sympathy was in response to protests of Jewish organizations around the world against the plan to build a shopping centre at the site where 1.5 million Jews, queers, gypsies and others were massacred during World War II.

Originally the fascists had been denied permission to march by Andrzej Teka, the president of the nearby town Oswiecim. This decision was overruled by the local representative of the national government, Marek Trombski. The only conditions given were that the march be quiet and no speeches could be delivered inside the camp.

Quiet or not, the march provoked worldwide outrage. The Polish Foreign Ministry was forced to publicly apologize to the international community, and on April 10th the cabinet held a special meeting declaring their disapproval of the demonstration and all "slogans and activities bearing the features of racism, anti-semitism and intolerance". Organizations such as the Anti-Nazi Group and the Polish section of Youth Against Racism in Europe are demanding the immediate dismissal of Marek Trombski. However, Prime Minister Wlodzimierz Cimoszewicz has refused to dismiss him because "...everybody has the right to make mistakes."

The Polish-German company planning to build a mall in the neighborhood of the former death camp (which is now a museum) has been under intense pressure from Holocaust survivors and anti-fascists around the world. In Toronto, local Jewish organization Betar-Tagar held a protest outside the Polish Consulate on Holocaust Memorial Day, April 16th. Religious leaders recited the kaddish and protestors sang Yiddish songs. The youthful faces of protestors contrasted nicely with the wrinkled bitter expressions of Polish nationalists who showed up to take pictures and try to intimidate the crowd. Betar Tagar is continuing to plan protests until the plans are quashed for good.

In fact, corporations backing the mall project are pulling out because of public pressure. Immediately after Holocaust Memorial Day, the local government announced that the project was cancelled and that the foundations for the mall were being pulled up. But within weeks, construction began again.

Observers say that the the PWN-PSN, which led the Nazi march on Auschwitz, planned the onslaught to regain credibility and support among right-wingers in Poland. They've recently been overshadowed by other groups such as Narodowa Ordodzenie (National Rebirth of Poland) and Prawica Narodowa (National Right). Unemployment is high in Oswiecim, the town near the camp, and the PWN-PSN tried to use that fact to create sympathy among local people who had hoped to get jobs from the project. They also claim that the international Jewish community is interfering with Poland's domestic affairs. This is a blatant attempt to play on sentiments of Polish nationalism, and anti-Semitism.

German anti-fascists tour north america

In April, supporters of a German anti-fascist group, the Autonome Antifa (M) toured North America to raise awareness of an upcoming trial in Germany. People associated with ARA, Love and Rage, and Arm the Spirit held events for them in 13 different cities.

The AA(M) are renowned throughout Germany because since they got together in 1989, they have basically shut down fascist activity in their city of Göttingen.

Most dramatically, their supporters often come to demonstrations in the famous "black bloc" formation — where hundreds of protestors march together wearing dark clothes and covering their faces to protect themselves against nazi surveillance, and police. But they're not just about the black bloc, they also do stunning propaganda, tons of educational work and coalition-building.

This combination of skills and determination seems to be very threatening to the German government, which has unleashed a legal campaign against them. After months of surveillance (including 14,000 wire-tapped calls in just seven months!) and several raids on people's homes, members and supporters of Antifa (M) are charged with "attempting to build a criminal organization".

The AA(M) are going to fight these charges with everything they've got and are preparing for a year in the courts and literally millions of dollars of legal fees. They feel that if the government is successful in criminalizing them, it will be practically illegal to do effective anti-fascist work in Germany.

Their trial is scheduled to begin on August 14. A campaign in international anti-fascist solidarity with these folks could make a real difference so watch out for more news about their case!

Love Music. Hate racism

NEWS FROM ARA NIAGARA —

We have set up an ARA group in the Niagara Region and on April 19, 1996 we held a successful kickoff party — a Rock Against Racism concert at the Palm Grove in St. Catharines. The event featured ThanatoPop, Illbred, Malickis Happy Corn Club, MDM, and some D.J.'s. The bands played alternative, punk, and industrial; the D.J.'s served up reggae, dance music, and hip-hop. The choice of contrasting styles of music was deliberate, with the goal of bringing together various types of people. The bands and D.J.s were great, the mosh pit was full of energy, the crowd was enthusiastic, and there were no problems at the night-club. There weren't any nazi boneheads in sight.

Neo-Nazi activity in Niagara is fairly low at the moment but the Heritage Front does have a group operating in the region and there have been occasional racist incidents. We have to unite now to ensure that the fascists never feel comfortable in our community. [ARA Niagara can be contacted at the address listed on page 8. Their newsletter is called "True Colours".]

NEWS FROM EDMONTON'S ANTI-FASCIST LEAGUE

On May 31st, after more than a month of planning, a capacity crowd packed into a tiny north-end community hall to enjoy Rock Against Racism. Although this was the fourth Rock Against Racism Edmonton had seen (the first one happening in 1987), it was the first one in over five years.

Local bands Elemenohpee, Misdemeanor, The Skeptics, Slugger and Calgary superstars The Primrods all joined forces, raising almost $500 for the anti-racist cause. Besides the money, over 35 people signed up to become more involved in some real anti-racist action, tonnes of anti-racist material was passed out to the multitudes, and more than a

Choice Quote from Lenny of Motorhead

"I am not, nor have I ever been, a racist. Nor should I be.... How can you hate a race? Can you not, with your brain (which seems to be inter-racially supplied) distinguish between people who are okay and people who are assholes?.... Politicians foster racism -- it keeps us fighting each other, and kept us from throwing them out of office...Vietnam -- there's a thing -- blacks against whites, and Japanese and Vietnamese, and Irish and Indians -- fighting together. For the wrong cause, though no less bravely. Do you think we could give bravery a fucking rest? Except in the case of a fire, or a woman and child trapped in Oklahoma City?.... Being scared of people makes you kill them. We got probes in space that go to the stars, and we might go soon, ourselves. What are we going to take with us? Hate? WORK AGAINST IT. Hasta la vista, motherfuckers."

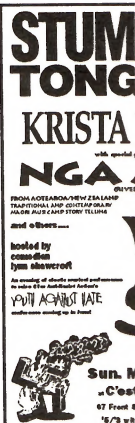

few people had new information to give out on who the boneheads are in our community and what they're up to. The Anti-Fascist League was also happy to share a table with Food Not Bombs and we hope to continue a close working relationship with this dedicated anti-poverty, anti-hunger group. In short, Rock Against Racism lived up to its name.

Assistance for the show, promoted for free by the enigmatic production crew Secret Society, didn't just stop with the bands. Local silkscreeners and button manufacturers made commemorative t-shirts and pins for cost, tons of volunteers helped poster and handbill all over town, local 'zine Slur donated free ad space, ACCESS television plugged the concert, and even The Edmonton Sun ran a story on the day of the concert! The AFL would like to thank all those who made this concert a whopping big success, and we would also like to send a special thank-you to Anti-Racist Action Toronto for sending out an amazing care package of shirts, pins, patches, stickers, and copies of ON THE PROWL and ARA NEWS, all of which was gone by the end of the night, save for 8 pins. We'd also like to thanks the dozens of bands that called up to volunteer their time and apologize to them for not having room for everybody to play. Next time, we promise!

Finally, everyone in Edmonton was buzzing with rumours that boneheads had been threatening to come disrupt the show. They had made the same threats against Rock Against Racism in 1991 -- the only incident the night of that concert was when three shadowy figures from 2 blocks away yelled "S.H.A.R.P. sucks!" then ran for their lives. Still, we were prepared for anything and a group of people did regular runs to the bus stop to make sure everyone got to the show safely. Happily, the evening passed without incident and with no boneheads making an appearance anywhere near the show, despite their threats to do otherwise. That's boneheads for you, all mouth and no guts!

Plans for the money raised include possibilities of resurrecting the anti-racist hotline in Edmonton, setting up a web site, banners, poster campaigns, and perhaps getting some badly-needed equipment and office supplies.

Also, people here are interested in starting an ARA chapter to work with the Anti-Fascist League, so we plan to share the wealth with this burgeoning group!

TORONTO-- March 16, the Club 360 on Queen Street West was jam-packed with a skanking crowd for ARA's Bash the Fash concert.

Hosted by ska fan, long-time DJ Marva Jackson, the show opened with the 10-piece reggae posse Wailin' Souljahs doing a cover of Bob Marley's Get Up Stand Up! Within minutes show-goers were up from their seats and into the pit, where they stayed for the rest of the night. Inspector 7 came all the way from New Brunswick, New Jersey to rock the crowd, and their excellent set guaranteed them lots of new fans in their Canadian debut.

Montreal's Planet Smashers were the last act. Their suits were freshly pressed, the rhythms were tight and they kept the crowd jumping. The band was interviewed on Much Music the day before — it was cool to see them talking about their music while the camera was zooming in on their ARA T-shirts.

Everyone was sad that Mike of Arsenals, one of Canada's greatest Ska bands, was too sick to play and that the band had to cancel. Despite that, it was one of the hottest nights ARA ever hosted and the Arsenals' Skaborough boys promised to pick it up at the next big show on June 22 at the Elmo.

Thanx to Mary Lou for her no-nonsense article on the revival of the North American ska scene in the February issue of Impact magazine. It gave us real jump start to look for our forgotten checkered skirts and neat black pants, to take ska back to its roots and spread the word against hate mongers.

Also... special thanks to Stumblin' Tongues, Krista White, Nga Awa and Lynn Shawcroft for their performances on the May 19 benefit. The Sunday show was packed with fans of the spoken word... Finally, DJ Denise Benson came through again with a CRUSH benefit at Boots Warehouse for the Youth Against Hate Conference.

Rock Against Racism

The Rock Against Racism movement was a hot phenomenon in England and North America during the 70s and early 80s.

Started by musicians and fans who were disgusted with racist statements made by some popular performers, and also in reaction to fascist recruitment of young people, RAR pulled together punks, ska & reggae artists, pop icons, left-over hippies... They put on shows and massive outdoor concerts, promoted bands and created a network of people loving music and hating racism.

For a time, there were chapters all over England and North America held together by a few zines, cool buttons, and a strong respect for African culture - the basis of most modern music.

ARA groups getting started in North America these days are finding musicians to be some of our best friends and allies. The Mighty Mighty Bosstones have taken Columbus ARA on tour with them, giving them a chance to meet tons of people who have never had any contact with anti-racist politics before but think it's pretty cool! Toronto ARA would never have made it this far without the support of Hockey Teeth, Repeat Offender, P-9, Plains of Fascination, Arsenals, Wailin' Souljahs, Sistah Loyce, and tons of others...

Word is folks are starting a new RAR in Toronto! Bands wanting to hook up with it can through ARA. Imagine a Rock Against Racism tour blasting through Ontario...

Profile of a pineapple head

Last spring, one of the ugliest of the Canadian boneheads, Daniel "pimpily pineapple head" Simms ended his years of being a fugitive from the Canadian justice system and quietly surrendered to the RCMP. He crossed the Canadian border from Idaho, where the Aryan Nations has their Hayden Lake compound, into Creston, British Columbia. It's not clear yet if he's abandoned nazism and joined the growing avalanche of rats deserting their racial comrades...

Sims was charged with beating up Edmonton radio-talk show host Keith Rutherford in 1990, with other Final Solution Skins. He went underground in that year when the Alberta Court of Appeal sentenced him to one year in the jail for that attack, which cost Rutherfordhood one eye. Right now he is counting the iron bars at Stoney Plain Correctional facility near Edmonton.

While in the US, he was a bone-head organizer for the Aryan Nations and KKK. He was noted at various neo-nazi events but the RCMP never had the nerve to track him down and bring him back to Canada.

Whether or not Simms is ratting out his nazi buddies, Simms is one of the most violent nazi boneheads around and deserves attention from anti-racists wherever shows his face.

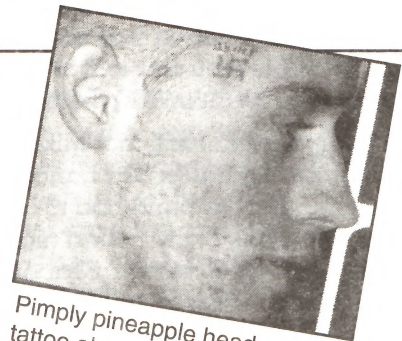

There are no reports of his presence in Toronto, but he sure has lots of buddies among the fash losers here. Better to be vigilant and be ready!

Daniel Joshua Simms. a.k.a. Dan Laak, Peter Northcott

- 25 years old, born in California and moved to Canada with his mom in 1986.
- One-time leader of the Edmonton Final Solution Skins.
- Swastika tattoo on the right temple with the "skins" written directly above it, white power tattoos on his arms.
- Assaulted Keith Rutherford in April 1990. Pled guilty for common assault, sentenced to 60 days in jail. Alberta Court of Appeals increased sentence to one year and Simms fled to USA (June 1990).
- Bumbuddies with Terry Long (former leader of Aryan Nations in Canada) and Edgar Foth (Canadian member of the neo-nazi terrorist group "The Order").

RAT TRAP

Yo what's up.....again this the maaaaaan behind the enemy lines. I got a lot to share, but to be honest, a lot of this shit isn't too good to print in any of these zines. So nasty and funny, I'll just keep it to myself, and one of these gloomy nights, I'll have a spliff and a few laughs all to myself!!

The big news is these bastards are masters fucking themselves up, all by themselves. When you let one stick their finger in a hole, they all want to put their head in it. Let's start with that braindead motherfucker Chris "the Tongue" Newhook. Remember I told you last time that guy is growing his hair, to straighten out his "life". The fuckhead got out of the joint in March and was really going to try and stay out. Then some loonies up in North York invited him to this beer night to celebrate the 14 words. You know how it sounds to the Tongue: 14 words means 14 beers. I was up at that crash pad at Graydon Hall knocking them back in the kitchen. It as tough, but I put on my best face and was on my way to getting loaded, but still scanning the crowd — and I suddenly heard baaaaaaaang!

Who else could it be? This fucker is notorious for banging his own ilk with beer bottles. He did the same some time back, to that crackhead Don "the fuck face" Andrews. I mean the Tongue was collecting his dole cheque at Kingsmount, Don's twice half-baked bungalow. He didn't like Don taking a cut out of his dole money, so he wacked him real bad.

Not that he's a tough guy or anything, but beer can make you tough...

Anyways, it was Peter Lang who got it that night. He cracked one bottle and all I remember was taking cover as the shit started flying. When I opened my eyes, Chris was lying in a pool of blood! His one lung was neatly done! I gave a pat to the guy and walked away before 911 showed up to save the day. There you go... Chris is back in lock-up, this time charged with aggravated assault. Any bone-brain who's got a spare lung and wants to share it — try calling the Pen. He's still not looking for a brain transplant.

So Wolfgang "Walter" Droege is out of the joint now. Went to the Honest Ed's to get some cheap stuff to put his scattered life together. Oh yeah, the guy tried reading for a change, picked up a few items at the World's Biggest Bookstore on Yonge (probably just girlie magazines). In between reading and jerking off he's fucking pissed off at his comrades. He put his life on the line and others had a riot while he was away. When he was inside, a gal was calling him all the time — she even wanted to marry him! But "fat boy" James Scott Dawson wanted a piece of it too. That's why he is really pissed off at him. Not that I'm suggesting that Wolfie is the guy who put the poison to the Front fellas that Dawson is a rat...

Let's rest the case against Mark "the new daddy" Lemire. No comment on the cop connection. That's not my fucking business. You know he was under the wing of Grant Bristow, who got a good grant from the feds for the Front. Now, it's an open secret that Zundel likes to keep "cops" very close to his chest, so Mark has soft spot for Mr. Z. But the baffoon doesn't know how to keep his cover undercover. I swiped a copy of this fax he sent to the city politicians complaining about the ARA's terrorist activities (!) He blew it again. This is in his own words: "I ask you as a citizen of the finest city in the world ...do we really want to support violent groups that do nothing to further the Anti-Racist agenda in the city?" He really sounds like he's on our side, eh?

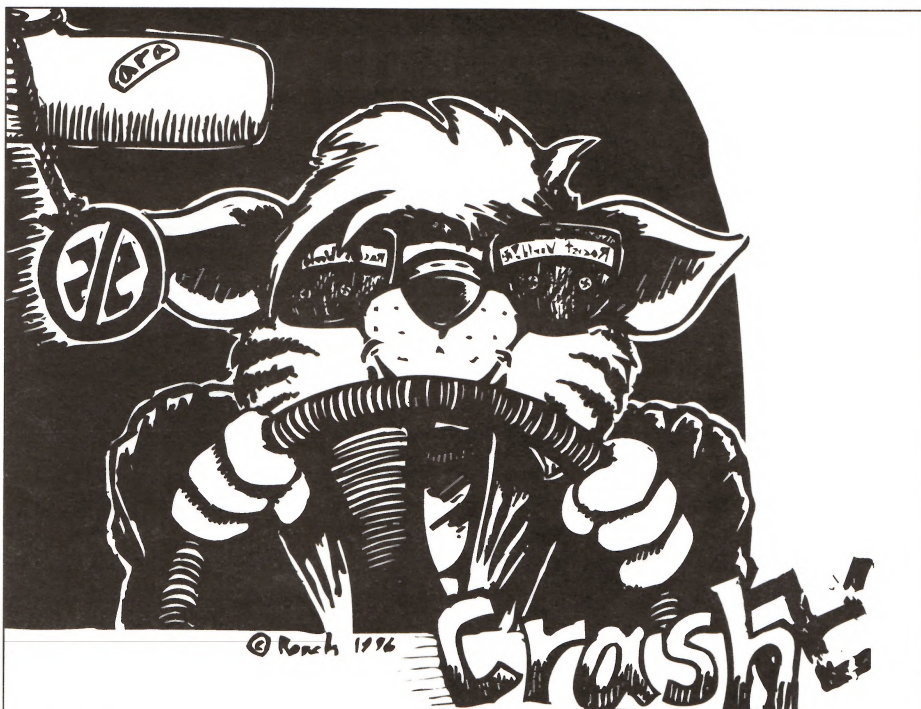

Speaking of Zundel...you know that he is in love. I had a busy day at 206 Carlton and took a break to smoke a spliff in the back alley. I get really bored eating pizza all the time — after all he can't eat out with the locals hassling him wherever he goes. And I bet the pizza joints know when an order comes from Mr. Z.'s house and probably piss all over the dough. So sometimes I slip into that roti joint on the corner, thinking that if Mr. Z. comes to power there is no chance of good spicy food in this town. Anyways, I had a big chuckle at the news. Anne is mad for the loss of half the property but Ernie was a lousy lay anyway

I don't blame Ernie for that marriage! After all, she's down at the border and our boy is here. I think it was all cooked up when that suit-and-tie lawyer from Victoria — Doug Christie — was in town. I bet he told Ernie that if he marries a woman in US, he can pack his bags and go to the states if things look bad here. I don't know how well it's going to work... I hear that Immigration Canada asks a lot of questions like "what colour is her underwear?" Now, if the americans try the same thing, how is Mr. Z. going to answer? Personally, I think that Doug fucked him up again!

Watch for these Herr-apparent wannabes!

I got to go... but hang on a sec, one more thing, I got to set the record straight. It wasn't me who blew the whistle on Dawson. No matter what... it's wrong to snitch to welfare that he's collecting a cheque and working too. I wouldn't do that even to my worst enemy! Forget it! And it's not like it's real work he's doing anyway, just running errands for Harry Doan. I mean they are drinking buddies for chrissakes. I don't blame him for checking with Gerry Lincoln for that kind of shit!

Opening a Klan Museum? Some of your neighbours might object, like this local who drove his truck right through the front window. Story next issue!

"Pop" Free After 38 Years!!!

Moreese "Pop" Bickham, 78, the third-longest incarcerated prisoner at Angola State Prison, was released this past January, after 38 years under lock and key.

In 1958, Bickham, who is African-American, was convicted of first-degree murder and sentenced to death by an all-white jury after killing two white sheriff's deputies in the small Louisiana town Mandeville. Pop contends to this day that the coppers were Ku Klux Klansmen and that he fired in self-defense.

"They shot first, plugged me in the stomach. What was I supposed to do, let them kill me?", he said. Nothing was introduced at trial, according to the transcript, to contradict his version of the incident, but he was convicted and sentenced to death just the same. "Why?", he said. "In 1958, if a Black man got into it with a white man, he was doomed."

During the moratorium on the death penalty, his sentence was commuted to life without parole. In March 1995, he was given parole eligibility, but because of rabid police and KKK opposition, he was denied parole.

However, the "good time" credits he had earned for nearly forty years enabled him to discharge his reduced term January 10th, 1996. After exiting Angola's front gate, he knelt down and kissed the ground. Maximum respect and bulletproof love goes out to you, Pop, and all other resisters of racist cop, klan and nazi terror!

Turner Diaries Mainstream Release

The Turner Diaries, a nazi "fantasy" novel written in 1978 by National Alliance leader William Pierce (under the pen name Andrew MacDonald), has been reprinted by a major american publishing house. New York-based Barricade Books has printed 50,000 copies of the novel. In the past it has only been available through mailorder from the National Alliance and other fascist groups.

The Turner Diaries describes a "race war" where white supremacist guerillas hold mass executions of Blacks, Jews and "Race Traitors". The book has already been used as a blueprint for nazi terror. The Oklahoma City bombing followed the opening pages of the book to the letter. Truck bombs made of a mix-

OPP= Unrepentant Racist Killers

The Ontario Provincial Police once again made known their contempt and arrogance towards the lives of First Nations people, when it was revealed that, as a "commemoration" of their military invasion of sacred Stoney Point burial grounds last year, they were distributing mugs with a decal bearing the OPP crest with an arrow through it with "Team Ipperwash '95" underneath, and sweat shirts with the OPP crest on top of an eagle feather, both of which were available only to police.

The invasion occurred last year to crush a peaceful reclamation by Stoney Pointers of sacred burial grounds over which a settler playground known as Ipperwash Provincial Park is built. It culminated in the unprosecuted murder of activist and warrior Anthony (Dudley) George and the arrests of 26 people on trumped-up charges (see next page for more details).

ture of fuel oil and fertilizer went off at around 9:05 am in both the book and in Oklahoma. In the early 1980's american nazi Robert Jay Mathews formed the fascist underground organization, The Order, using the Turner Diaries as his guide. The Order embarked on a 14-month spree of nazi terror that included several robberies, counterfeitings and the murder of Jewish talk-show host Alan Berg in Denver, Colorado.

The book is in stores now, with about 10% of the proceeds going to William Pierce and the National Alliance. The Turner Diaries have already incited too much fascist violence. Sick of it all? Chewed gum between pages is an effective way to make sure no one will buy this book, for a start.

Urgent Appeal for Stoney Point Legal Fund

The Aazhooenaang Enjibaajig-Stoney Point people need to raise $50,000 to cover legal expenses incurred in their struggle to get re-established on their territory. Stoney Point Aazhooenaang Territory was set aside by treaty in 1827. However, in 1942 the Canadian government invoked the War Measures Act and forcibly moved the Stoney Point People in order to build a military training facility-which was later to be used by the Ontario Provincial Police. The people were promised that their territory would be returned at the end of World War II.

In 1993, the Stoney Pointers moved back onto the firing ranges to live in makeshift dwellings, small trailers and tents. On July 29, 1995 they moved into the military barracks. Then on September 6, 1995, the Ontario Provincial Police opened fire upon unarmed men, women and children at Stoney Point, commonly known as Ipperwash Provincial Park, resulting in the killing of

Anthony O'Brien "Dudley" George.

While the Stoney Point People have had their treaties violated, their burial grounds desecrated and their loved ones shot, no reports have been filed into the shooting death nor charges laid for these violations. Rather, the Stoney Pointers themselves have had numerous petty charges laid on them such as mischief, forcibly entering and detaining a park, possessing a barrel shaped object having the appearance of a weapon, etc. Others are facing fabricated charges of assault or dangerous driving.

The 26 people charged in February 1996 will be in court in Sarnia for pre-trial on June 27 and on trial for the two weeks of Oct 21 and 28, 1996. To defend the Stoney Point People in the courts, legal funds are urgently required. Legal Aid is unavailable. Donations of any amount would be gratefully accepted.

The case of Khalfani X. Khaldun

In December of 1994, after the execution of Ajamu Nassar, one of Khalfani's closest comrades, a guard was stabbed to death in retaliation.

Khalfani was almost immediately charged with murder, and if convicted, he will be sentenced to death! He maintains his innocence, and there is no physical evidence against him. The ten inmates who had implicated him have since signed sworn affidavits saying their statements against Khalfani were literally beaten out of them.

Across the U.S. and Canada people are organizing to get Khalfani off these frame-up charges. As part of this work, Peterborough's Anti-Colonial Action Alliance is publishing a 79-page booklet of Khalfani's writings, as a fundraiser for his defense committee. His writings cover topics such as the racist and class nature of imprisonment in the U.S., the roots of gang violence in the Black community and how to end it, forced sterilization, and the responsibility of all men to confront sexist behaviour and attitudes.

OPP ordered design on coffee mugs after shooting

Catherine Koolen, owner of the Forest Pro Sports store where this racist regalia was produced and made available for sale, was contacted by two of Dudley's sisters. She then stopped selling the items and told the press, "we have no intention of making money on the backs of other people's misfortunes."

Too bad she didn't think of that before producing the items, many of them personalized for the cowboys.
